THE RESIDENCE

Soline

Soline occupies the entire middle floor of a distinguished residence in St Anton, Austria, offering 200 square metres of beautifully considered living space for up to twelve guests across five en-suite bedrooms. Completed in 2010 and crafted to the highest standards, the apartment is distinguished by an original eighteenth-century Tyrolean Stube, extensive use of aged timbers and natural stone, and a remarkable Renaissance painted ceiling adorning the dining area. Rich, warm fabrics throughout lend the interiors an atmosphere of deep alpine comfort, while the traditional Austrian fireplace anchors the open-plan living and dining space at the western end of the property. South west-facing balconies, accessible from every bedroom and the principal living area, frame breathtaking views across the surrounding peaks, flooding the rooms with natural light throughout the day.

The thoughtfully arranged floor plan flows from a welcoming entrance hallway, guiding guests towards the generous bedroom wing in one direction and the sociable living quarters in the other. The open-plan kitchen and dining area seats twelve with ease, while a separate television room provides a cosy retreat for younger guests after a day on the mountain. The master bedroom is notably spacious, with an en-suite bathroom, a private balcony, and the flexibility of twin or double configuration. Three further bedrooms offer twin or double arrangements, each finished in a warm alpine style with en-suite facilities, and a fifth room provides a traditional quad bunk room with adult-sized bunks and an en-suite shower room. A guest cloakroom serves the main hallway, and external parking for two vehicles is provided.

On the lower ground floor, residents enjoy access to a shared ski locker and boot-heating room, ensuring seamless transitions between the apartment and the slopes, with the Nasserein lift station only a short walk away. A shared spa area, comprising a hammam, sauna, shower and relaxation zone, offers a refined sanctuary for post-skiing restoration. When reserved on a catered light basis, meals are prepared in a dedicated professional kitchen and served by attentive hosts within the comfort of the apartment, combining the warmth of private living with the ease of discreet, professional service.
